LEARNING GOALS

The participant will...

• Examine the importance of student-centered dialogue for learning
• View an example Socratic Circle in action
• Discuss the implementation of Socratic Circles into his or her classroom
PRIOR DISCUSSION EXPERIENCE IN THE CLASSROOM

• Typically, who asks the questions in a discussion?
• Ultimately, who answers the questions in a discussion?
• Who does most of the talking in a discussion?
TOO MUCH TEACHER TALK?

In one study of 1,151 classroom discussions occurring in over 200 eighth and ninth grade classrooms:

- 93.31% (1074 discussions) were completely monologic (teacher-centered) in nature
- Of the 6.69% (77) that included “dialogic episodes” (moments when students directed the conversation), those episodes lasted for an average of 15 seconds

(Nystrand et al., 2003)
TOO MUCH TEACHER TALK?

In a national survey of teacher perspectives on pedagogy, 95% of English language arts teachers reported valuing peer discussion, yet only 33% of those same teachers regularly make room for it.

(Commeyras and DeGroff, 1998)

5. Teach essential content knowledge so that all students master critical concepts.

(Torgesen, et al., 2007)
USDE’S FIVE RECOMMENDATIONS TO IMPROVE ADOLESCENT LITERACY

1. Provide explicit vocabulary instruction.
2. Provide direct and explicit comprehension strategy instruction.
3. Provide opportunities for extended discussion of text meaning and interpretation.
4. Increase student motivation and engagement in literacy learning.
5. Make available intensive and individualized interventions for struggling readers.

(Kamil et al., 2008)
“To become college and career ready, students must have ample opportunities to take part in a variety of rich, structured conversations…

Whatever their intended major or profession, high school graduates will depend heavily on their ability to listen attentively to others so that they are able to build on others’ meritorious ideas while expressing their own clearly and persuasively” (p 48).
“The unexamined life is not worth living.”

—Socrates
WHO WAS SOCRATES?

Classical Greek philosopher
470(?) – 399 B.C.

“Socrates was the first to call philosophy down from the heavens and to place it in cities, and even to introduce it into homes and compel it to enquire about life and standards and good and ill.” -- Cicero
Socrates believed the answers to all human questions reside within us and that through disciplined conversation we can discover ultimate truth.

“Socrates declared that he knew nothing, except the fact of his ignorance.” --Diogenes Laertius
WHAT IS A SOCRATIC CIRCLE?

A constructivist strategy in which participants engage in a conversation to collectively seek a deeper understanding of complex ideas.

• Time consuming
• Discussion is often left without complete “closure”
• Discussion may arrive at a conclusion with which the teacher is unfamiliar
• Appears “unstructured” to the uninformed observer
